Prostate Cancer-Longest Day of Golf Update

In the past few months there has been tremendous progress in your prostate cancer research projects. Because of all your support and commitment we will be conducting clinical trials on patients by the end of April. In less than a year you have all made a great impact on patients' lives and helped them with a better quality of life.

The goal of Drs. Eggener's and Oto's research is to test an MRI guided laser that can destroy prostate cancer cells without harming surrounding tissue. The clinical protocol was approved in late January 2010. Installation of the equipment is complete. Initial testing was started and is ongoing. The research team is working with the company to finalize the testing. The first patient has agreed to proceed with 3-4 others very strongly considering. They anticipate the first patient would be treated by early to mid April. For more information, click here.

The goal of Dr. Szmulewitz's research is to find markers on prostate cancer cells in the blood of patients to test new drugs and determine how well those drugs work. Testing blood is much easier, safer and less expensive than taking a biopsy from inside the body. Dr. Szmulewitz's research is progressing on schedule. He can detect the markers on the prostate cell surface and filter them out of blood. In the next phase he will be testing multiple markers at once and then using real patient samples! For more information, click here.
